

Africa Bound – Part 2
Saturday, June 24, 2017

As of Saturday, June 23, 2017, scratch item number 1c off my bucket List. I am no longer just Africa Bound; I have arrived! As previously noted, I was selected to participate in VSU's Fulbright-Hays Group Projects Abroad Seminar to Senegal, Africa. Thirteen educators (six public school teachers and administrators plus seven VSU professors) touched down and began their four week adventure in Senegal, Africa.

As an English 10 teacher with Sussex Central High School, this is the chance and opportunity of a lifetime. I intend to take full advantage of this blessing. Not only will writing this blog meet one of the requirements asked of me as a Fulbright-Hays scholar and serve as record and resource for future use in my English 10 classroom, but it will also provide insights on and about the culture, language, and beauty that is Senegal, Africa.

It is my hope that you will join me on this month long journey (June 23rd through July 22nd) and beyond to explore cultural and historical contexts, increase global awareness, and promote a cross-cultural dialogue. It promises to be an exciting adventure.
